

April 14th is Oysters, Authors & Ale.

Enter the Short Story & Poetry Competition for a chance to win great prizes and read at the event. This years theme for the competition is

"A Different View"

Contest closes March 26th. Please send all entries to bcsa.ct@gmail.com

This year OAA will also feature an Anonymous Art Sale. The Bamfield Arts Council is supplying blank canvases to anyone interested in doing a painting to donate to OAA. Half the cost will go to the cause and half will go to the artist.

Contact Andrea Butler for details.

Cooking with Friends

As part of the Community Adult Literacy Program the BCSA and HFN are offering a wide range of classes and workshops throughout the Spring. February will feature 2 cooking classes.

February 6th, 6pm at the Fire Hall

February 13th, 6pm at the House of Huu-ay-aht

Join us for a fun community cooking experience and participate in making a heart healthy, budget friendly meal!

Participation is free, but limited to 20 people due to space. We ask that you register in advance to ensure enough ingredients for everyone.

Call Catherine at 728 1220 to register for Feb 6th & Jeanne at 728 3692 to register for Feb 13th.

Flowers are often an expression of appreciation, love, condolence or regret. While giving flowers is reflective of social niceties the cut-flower industry certainly is not. The market is flooded with flowers produced under practices that are socially and environmentally irresponsible, unethical and hazardous to health. One example, among many, is the industries extensive use of various pesticides, herbicides, fungicides, fertilizers and other toxic chemicals— many of which have been banned in developed countries. These chemicals are not isolated— they enter the surrounding air, water and soil, as well as workers and consumers.

This year say it with your words!
